U. S. Supreme Court Upholds Airmail Cancellations

REFUSES TO HEAR APPEAL OF COMPANY

Transcontinental and TWA Attack on Farley's Act Is Ignored by Jurists
BACKS LOWER COURT
Action is Brought Immediately After Cancellation of Contracts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(UP)—Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., today was refused supreme court consideration of its appeal attacking Postmaster General James A. Farley's cancellation of air mail contracts.

The company appealed from the southern district of New York federal court ruling which refused to enjoin Farley from breaking the contracts.

The Transcontinental's action was brought immediately after the cancellation order and sought to enjoin Farley from breaking the contracts.

Filed in New York, one of the terminals of the company's transcontinental lines, the suit charged that Farley's order nullified contracts beyond his authority. Judge John C. Knox, before whom the issue was raised, dismissed the suit holding it was substantially against the United States and could not be maintained.

This decision was reviewed by the second circuit court of appeals which held the suit should have been dismissed for lack of jurisdiction. Both rulings, the company contends, are contrary to previous rulings of the supreme court.

Its briefs contained a bitter attack on the policies which led to cancellation saying the private citizen, as governmental functions increase, "has a right to know where he stands...whether he is helpless as solemn agreements are brushed aside by an impatient official."

The company's investment of $8,000,000 actual and contracted and additional millions of goodwill, it was charged, were jeopardized by the cancellation.

NEW BATTLE OVER BONUS PREDICTED

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 15.—(UP)—American Legion leaders today predicted another battle over the soldiers' bonus at the 17th national convention.

Commander Edward A. Hayes, who arrived yesterday, said he expected the controversial measure to reach the convention floor next Tuesday or Wednesday. The convention opens Sunday.

The Legion chief said the floor would be open to every delegate who wants to be heard on the question of adjusted compensation certificates. "There will be no steam-roller for or against the bonus," he added.

Hayes said he had been informed that President Roosevelt would not appear before the convention as he did last year in Chicago, to request the Legion to defeat a resolution calling for immediate payment of the bonus.

AUSTRIAN PUTSCH PLOT IS UNCOVERED

VIENNA, Oct. 15.—(UP)—The government, after intercepting a message allegedly revealing plans for a communist putsch tonight, ordered police and heimwehr guards armed throughout the city.

Machine guns were mounted at entrances to public buildings, at the railroad depots and other strategic points.

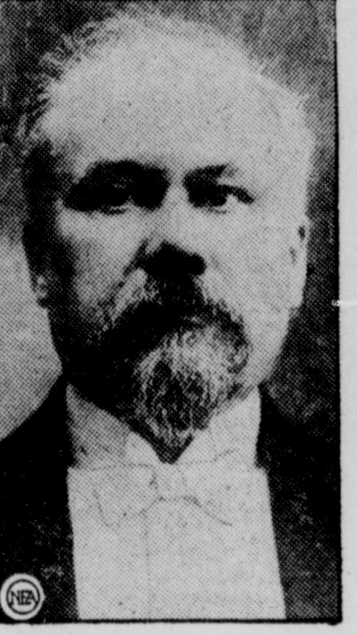

It was not known in what quarter the putsch was planned.

Rumors of a putsch have been current for several days. It was understood the coup was planned for the period between October 15 and 17.

Whether this meant today, or October 15 by the Russian calendar, which corresponds to October 28, was not known.

HAIGHT GIVES CONDITION FOR QUITTING RACE

Says He'll Drop Out Only If He Can't Prove His Merit Charges

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15.—Declaring he would cease his gubernatorial campaign should it be shown that his charges against Gov. Frank Merriam of using his office as a means of securing campaign funds are unfounded, Raymond L. Haight, Progressive standard bearer, today offered to submit his proof to any impartial tribunal as a board of review.

I am in this fight to a finish and to win, everyone in California must appreciate the certainty with which I speak. If such a body finds that my charges were not justified by the facts I am willing to cease my fight to give California back to the people," stated Haight.

The ex-state corporation had several pointed things to say about Governor Merriam's radio address of last Thursday night.

"Integrity of purpose is the crowning issue of this campaign. Mr. Merriam cannot hope to be fogged by vituperation and bitter attack upon personalities. In my opinion any man who would allow his supporters to use his order calling out state troops as a means of collecting campaign funds from those interested in the shipping business (crux of the controversy) is not entitled to be elected to the high office of Governor," asserted the dynamic candidate.

"Mr. Merriam has not denied and cannot deny those charges. His promises to seek advice on the unemployment situation means nothing. He has already called a special session of the legislature and action taken there shows he has no program to help the people of this state," further declared Haight.

The Progressive candidate takes to the air again Monday night, 6:45 p. m., over a statewide network of the Columbia-Don Lee System.

"People only throw away their vote for something or somebody they do not want." This statement was made by Haight, in urging people to vote according to their convictions in the Literary Digest Poll. He made it plain that this poll would serve a real purpose if those participating would vote according to principles and not bow to expediency.

BISHOP MEISER IS FREED AT MUNICH

MUNICH, Bavaria, Oct. 15.—(UP)—Bishop Hans Meiser, storm center of the Bavarian controversy within the German Christian church, was released today from detention.

The police guard, which had held Meiser and his councilors in the Episcopal palace, was lifted and Meiser returned home, where he received his friends.

POINCARE DIES DURING NIGHT IN PARIS HOME

War Time President and "Savior of the Franc" Passes Suddenly

PARIS, Oct. 15.—(UP)—Raymond Poincare, France's war-time president, died today.

He had been ill since he resigned from his third tenure of office as premier in 1929, but death came swiftly. It was announced yesterday that he was slightly ill. Last night he slept fitfully, became worse around midnight and died at 4 a. m. today.

The death of Poincare, called the savior of the franc for his stabilization of the currency when he was called to the prime ministry for the third time in 1926, deprived France of a second great statesman within a week.

Louis Barthou, foreign minister, who was assassinated at Marseilles with King Alexander, was buried Saturday.

Poincare served his country for more than 50 of his 74 years. He entered the chamber of deputies, already prominent as an editor, in 1887 and from then on was a central figure in politics.

In 1929, honored and in even higher esteem than when he was president, he was forced to resign as premier because of illness.

He returned to Paris in September after spending the summer at Sampigny. He seemed greatly improved and resumed work on his long awaited political autobiography, in which he had reached the early post-war stage. This book was expected to cause a world sensation.

Not Expected
His death was not expected. His wife was the only member of the family at his bedside, though several of his political collaborators were there.

Premier Gaston Doumergue at once began plans for a national funeral for one of France's greatest modern statesmen. Poincare's wife wants him buried at Nube-court, and hence it was not expected that an effort would be made to bury him along with other great Frenchmen in the Pantheon.

Poincare was loved by few but respected by all Frenchmen, not the least by the many enemies he made in politics, of whom one

"Blind" Dates Arranged by Bruin Editor

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15.—(UP)—The Daily Bruin, University of California at Los Angeles student newspaper, was doing a land office business today, arranging "blind dates" for the University of California football game at Berkeley next Saturday.

An enterprising "promotion" editor set up a date bureau at which unattached coeds and male students left "reservations" for dates which will be filled at Berkeley, where a similar bureau presumably has been established.

The editor is not expected to be at his desk next Monday.

MASS SUICIDE IS THREATENED BY STRIKERS

Twelve Hundred Miners in Hungary Refuse to Quit Mines; Seek Raise

FUNKFIRCHEN, Hungary, Oct. 15.—(UP)—Twelve hundred hunger-striking miners, bent on mass suicide, held themselves in the depths of the Pec mine today while their women pleaded with troops at the pithead to be allowed to descend and die with them.

Soldiers with bayonets and machine guns held back the wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts of the miners, who struggled futilely, shouting:

"Let us go down into the pit to die with our men."

The miners, demanding a wage increase to $3.50 per week, threatened to cut off the ventilating fans and asphyxiate themselves, or stop the pumps and drown. Fifty of them were reported seriously ill in the depths. Forty-five had been brought up, ill from gas fumes.

Men Restrained
Thirty-two hundred miners on the surface went on sympathy strike.

Five emissaries of the Social Democrat party descended to try to persuade the strikers to compromise. They were held prisoners. Representatives of 20,000 to 30,000 miners of the Salgotarjan district voted for a sympathy strike in two days if the Funkfirchen district is not settled.

By mid-afternoon the situation looked desperate. The miners, who had been communicating with the surface by telephone and signal, announced they would answer no further messages until informed their wages have been increased.

The message said:

Send Up Message
"We will not leave the shafts or answer further messages until informed our wages have been increased."

HUGH JOHNSON ENDS SERVICE WITH NRA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(UP)—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson today leaves the national stage of public affairs where for 18 months he has been in or near the New Deal spotlight.

In the wings, he will await a call to give President Roosevelt and congress an account of his accomplishments as administrator of NRA.

Johnson greeted the day of his resignation from a hospital cot which he will leave in a day or two to rest at the North Carolina estate of Bernard Baruch, New York capitalist and Johnson's former business associate.

SUPREME COURT TO HEAR CALIF. APPEAL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(UP)—The supreme court today decided to hear arguments in an appeal brought by the American Securities company attacking validity of the California Acquisition and Improvement District Act of 1925 which was upheld by California's supreme court.

The action was brought against the city council and the board of supervisors of San Diego county. An application for review of another case involving the validity of the same act has been filed with the court by property owners in West Hollywood.

HOPES REVIVED FOR SAFETY OF SOCIETY BELLE

Word Expected from Kidnaper as "Zero Hour" Reported Near

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 15.—(UP)—Hopes for the safety of Mrs. Alice Stoll, kidnapped society beauty, were revived today as the "zero hour" for word from her abductor approached.

George Stoll, brother of the 30-year-old millionaire Berry V. Stoll, husband of the victim, appeared more hopeful when he talked with reporters today than at any time since the young wife was taken from a sick bed last Wednesday, beaten and carried away.

He spoke eagerly of the approaching "zero hour," which will be reached at 4:20 p. m. today. At that time the 5-day period mentioned in the ransom note will have elapsed.

Harold L. Nathan, in charge of the force of federal agents searching the Kentucky hills and byways, spoke of "when she is returned."

The restored spirits of the Stoll family and authorities, contrasted with their despair of yesterday, gave rise to reports that a new contact had been established with the kidnaper.

Since the kidnapping of the 26-year-old woman from her colonial brick home on exclusive Lime Kiln road daily radio broadcasts have been made by Stoll to assure the kidnaper that all demands of the $50,000 ransom note had been complied with.

There were no radio broadcasts yesterday and today, indicating perhaps the kidnaper has replied to earlier appeals.

The original ransom note, a typewritten message left behind in the Stoll home last Wednesday said the kidnaper would contact Mrs. Stoll's husband within five days.

NOTED CLOWN DIES IN OLD MEN'S HOME

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 15.—(UP)—Charles R. Reed fell under the mantle of Dan Rice, famous circus clown, 70 years ago and thereby was singled out for a career as a tumbler, acrobat and bareback rider that embazoned his name on many a circus poster during the mauve decade.

Reed died today at Altenheim, oldest resident of an old men's home which he entered in 1920. Reed was 92.

The aged trouper had starred with Forepaugh's, Barnum's, Sells Brothers, Thayer Brothers and Ringling Brothers circuses. Among survivors are Mrs. Temple Bonke, Honolulu; Margaret Reed, Czechoslovakia; Mrs. Blanche Thornhill, Venice Cal.; daughters; a son, France Reed, Shanghai and a brother, H. R. Reed, postmaster at Steam Corner, Ind.

U. S. SUPERVISING STOCK EXCHANGES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(UP)—The federal government today formally assumed supervision of the nation's stock exchanges.

All regulations in the securities exchange act went into effect under the administration of the securities and exchange commission.

Numerous regulations, which were postponed from Oct. 1 until today to permit brokers and dealers to transact their business with a minimum of disruption, now are operative.

Most important, from a financial viewpoint, of the new measure, was the fixing of margin requirements on a sliding scale from 25 to 45 per cent of market prices for securities.

The requirements were fixed by the federal reserve board for Oct. 1, but had been suspended until today.

CHARLES COBB DIES
PASADENA, Cal., Oct. 15.—(UP)—Charles Cobb, 87, president of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses association, sponsor of the annual New Year's day intersectional football game, died yesterday after a four-month illness. Cobb, a native of Nevada, was local passenger agent of the Santa Fe railroad. His widow, a son and daughter survive.

70-Year Old Cyclist Run Down Today

Driver of Milk Truck Unable to See Man Due to Dim Light

AN ELDERLY El Modena Mexican was killed early today and seven persons were hurt as the result of automobile accidents in Orange county over the weekend.

The death of G. Macias, 70, of El Modena, was the forty-sixth auto accident in the county this year, as compared to 40 at this time last year. Macias, riding a bicycle on West Chapman boulevard, was instantly killed at 5:15 a. m. today by a milk truck driven by Willard Gailey, 18, living at Hospital road and Chapman avenue.

Both the milk truck and bicycle were proceeding west at the time of the accident. It is believed that Gailey failed to see the Mexican in the dim light just before dawn. The body of Macias was removed to the Shannon funeral home in Orange where an inquest will be scheduled later by Coroner Earl Abbey.

A hit and run driver caused a wreck on the Coast boulevard west of Newport road at 3:15 o'clock last night, causing injury to four persons. It was reported that the unknown driver sideswiped the car of Lola Stanley, 41, Long Beach, and caused it to collide with a car driven by Howard Tryon, 30, Long Beach. Those hurt were Tryon, Ella Barre, 35, Long Beach and Gloria Barre, 8 and Ernest Barre, 10.

Two persons received injuries yesterday afternoon when cars driven by Charles N. Stiles of San Bernardino and Herman C. Orth of Los Angeles collided at Thalia and Lincoln streets in Anaheim. Those hurt were Virgil Stiles, 500 East Chartress street, Anaheim, brother of the driver, and Miss Marjorie Owens, of San Bernardino.

When cars driven by L. H. Millford, 30, Long Beach and Clara A. Gill, of Westminster, collided on Ocean avenue near Huntington Avenue in Garden Grove last night, Mrs. Anna M. Millford of Long Beach was hurt.

LIFE IN PERIL

As relatives wait in growing dread, Mrs. Alice Stoll, below, wife of a wealthy Louisville oil man, is held prisoner for $50,000 ransom by a kidnaper.

CAPONE LOSES HIS APPEAL TO HIGH TRIBUNAL

Deaf Ear Turned to Habeas Corpus Battle by Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(UP)—Al Capone today lost probably his last plea for liberty from the federal penitentiary where he is serving 10 years of the 11 years of sentence imposed on him in Chicago for failing to pay his income taxes.

The supreme court, to which the premier of Chicago gangster carried his fight for release, turned a deaf ear to his habeas corpus fight, which was begun while he was still in Atlanta penitentiary and which he lost in two lower courts. Capone was recently transferred to Alcatraz prison in San Francisco bay.

Except for a petition for rehearing, a generally futile gesture, the ruling closed any possible avenue which Capone has left to gain his release until he becomes eligible for parole.

The plea which Capone presented to the court today is based on a legal technicality involving the statute of limitations as applied to income tax cases.

In ordinary federal offenses the perpetrator may not be indicted more than three years after the alleged crime. In cases of fraud on the government, however, the statute has been extended to six years.

Ten alleged offenses which sent Capone behind the bars of the federal penitentiary grew out of his failure to file an income tax return for the years 1925, 1926 and 1927. The government claimed that because he failed to make a full income tax return for those years Capone had defrauded the government, and the six-year limit on

THREE DROWNED IN WAVE AT HONOLULU

HONOLULU, T. H., Oct. 15.—(UP)—Searchers today abandoned hope of recovering the bodies of Lt. John W. Stribling and Lt. William F. Stevenson, 29, who, with Mrs. Stribling, were carried to their deaths by a huge wave here.

Only Mrs. Stevenson escaped in the accident which occurred while the four were fishing from a reef. Despite serious injuries she alone of the quartet managed to swim to safety.

Mrs. Stribling's body was recovered yesterday but that of the two army officers, graduates of the United States military academy with the class of 1923, were carried out to sea by the wave.

Stribling, whose home was in Florence, Ala., was attached to the air corps at Wheeler field, Stevenson, a resident of Wynnboro, S. C., was an officer of the 19th infantry at Schofield barracks.

SUSPECT IS GRILLED IN HIGH COURT

Swears He was With Wife in Bronx on Night of Lindy Baby Kidnaping

WIFE ALSO TESTIFIES

Declares Hauptmann Called for Her and Took Her Home from Work Mar. 1

BULLETIN
NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(UP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann denied from the witness stand today that he kidnapped and murdered the infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

His thin, pale face drawn in tense lines and his chin sharply raised, Hauptmann snapped out a resounding "No" in answer to a question framed as an accusation by New Jersey's attorney general, David T. Wilentz.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(UP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, pale but composed, swore in supreme court today that he was with his wife in Bronx county on the night of the Lindbergh kidnapping and murder.

The suspect in the Lindbergh case, fighting extradition to New Jersey on murder charges, spoke in a thin, sometimes quivering voice when he appeared as his own star alibi witness.

His wife, Anna, a few minutes earlier had sworn that Hauptmann took her home from the Bronx bakery, where she worked on the night of the kidnapping.

Hauptmann was called as the fourth witness.

Defense Attorney J. K. Fawcett questioned him.

Q—Do you remember your wife working in Fredericksen's store from 1923 to 1932? A—Yes.

Q—Did you take your wife to work in your car? A—Not always but very often.

Q—Did you take her home on Tuesday nights in March 1932? A—Yes.

Q—And prior to that? A—Yes.

Fawcett asked if he remembered "March 1, 1932?"

"Yes," he said.

Q—What time did you take your wife to work on March second? A—About Seven. We left the house at a quarter to seven.

The prisoner sat quietly during several brief interruptions of questioning by Fawcett. Sometimes his head moved jerkily from right to left as he shifted his gaze.

Q—What kind of work do you do? A—Carpenter work.

Q—Now, Richard, how did you get these checks—from Mr. Grizzle (the employer) or from the Reliance people? (Grizzle was his employer when he worked for the Reliance company.) A—I went to Grizzle's office.

Q—Here is a check signed by Kate Fredericksen. Do you recognize the signature? A—Yes.

The check was made out to Mrs. Hauptmann and bore her signature.

Q—Did you do some work for Mr. Grizzle during March 1932? A—I don't think so.

Q—During March 1932, did you go to Hotel Majestic to see if there was work? A—Yes.

Q—Did you go down before March 1?

The bench interjected: "Answer, yes or no."

A—I can't just remember. It was late in February or early in March.

Hauptmann said he worked steadily in 1929, 1930, and 1932 as a carpenter, but not in 1932.

Resurfacing Job On West First Street Completed

Resurfacing of West First street between Artesia and Sullivan streets was completed Saturday afternoon by the city street department under a project to be financed by a portion of Santa Ana's revenue from the state gasoline tax.

Another gas tax project involving the installation of new drainage culverts on North Main street at Washington avenue and Tenth street, is well under way. The bottom and sides of the west half of the culvert at Washington has been poured and the concrete top will be poured tomorrow. At Tenth street, excavation work on the west half is finished and the concrete bottom of the twin culverts will be poured tomorrow.

The culverts are being constructed in sections so that traffic will not be obstructed at any time. Each of the projects will cost $1200.

After releasing the deputation, which was detained for two hours, the miners fastened the elevators so further delegations could not descend.

POINCARE DIES DURING NIGHT IN PARIS HOME

of the most implacable was the late Georges Clemenceau, "The Tiger," who was premier during the war while Poincare was president.

Poincare, though he was called the Lion of Lorraine, was known as a man of deliberation and method.

He was premier for the first time in 1912 and 1913, during the critical years just before the war. He was his own foreign minister, and in addition to maintaining the closest of relations with Great Britain he did all he could to forward friendship and close collaboration with Czarist Russia, the third member of the Triple Entente which was opposed to the German-Austrian-Italian triple alliance.

Elected President In 1913 he was elected president for the term expiring in 1920. He was one of the men who saw war on the way, and he did everything he could to prepare France for it. He was in Russia on an official visit when Archduke Franz Ferdinand was assassinated at Sarajevo in 1914, and the war was a matter of weeks.

During the war he was not on good terms with Clemenceau. During one period they did not even speak. Their enmity was made more bitter because Poincare did not like the Versailles peace treaty.

Leaving the presidency in 1920, Poincare went back to the senate. He became premier for the second time in 1922, and it was he who made the decision to march the French army into the German Ruhr when Germany refused to pay reparations promptly.

He resigned in 1924 after a left wing victory.

Poincare Called France's currency then began to weaken, to collapse. Poincare was called in 1926. France was faced with a crisis hardly less menacing than that of war.

Disregarding every consideration but saving the currency, he stabilized the franc at its present basis of roughly one-fifth its former value. Savings were swept away; many men were ruined. Protest availed nothing. Poincare, deliberate and hard headed, was sure he had taken the only course.

He won. He built for France a financial bulwark which made her the envy of almost all the world. It was because of his work that France was able to stay on a gold basis when other currencies were being inflated.

The funeral was fixed for Saturday, in order that President Albert Lebrun and several cabinet ministers could attend the funeral of King Alexander at Belgrade Thursday.

It was decided that Poincare's funeral should be one like that given President Paul Doumer, who fell victim to an assassin in 1932. The body will be placed in the Pantheon for several days, to lie in state. It will be taken to Notre Dame cathedral Sunday for requiem mass and returned to the Pantheon for the official ceremony, including a eulogy by President Doumergue.

The body will be buried at Nube-court Sunday, with members of the government and Lorraine peasants attending.

WILL ROGERS says:

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 15. (To the Editor of The Register: There is not going to be any war in Europe now, for nobody knows just who they would fight, nations are not signed up. In the big war before, they already had their sides picked, and the war was booked long before it came off, but since that war, nations have kinder wanted to do like a lot of our moving-picture stars do, they won't sign exclusively with one company, they take a chance on what we call "free lancing," that is, waiting for the best offer. So that's what most European nations are doing, they are going to wait till war starts, then "free lance." Sit and wait for the best offer. That's what France had this King come over there for, they were trying to get an option on his services. France had Poland signed up, but there was a cancellation clause, so now Poland is "free lancing."

Yours for all the European news that's fit to print.

WILL ROGERS.

EXTRADITION BATTLE OPENED BY HAUPTMANN

By referring to checks, one dated March 1, 1932, Fawcett led Hauptmann rather uncertainly through his activities on the day of the kidnapping.

"Did you go down to the Reliance company that day March 1, looking for a job?" Fawcett asked repeatedly.

There was an argument in which Fawcett and Attorney General David Wilentz of New Jersey, discussed the question.

Hauptmann finally turned to Justice Ernest E. L. Hammer, who had the query re-framed.

Hauptmann couldn't answer exactly. He said he looked for work and at 5 p. m. returned home and changed his clothes.

He then went to Frederiksen's bakery where he had supper with his wife.

Q—What time was that? A—Between 6 and 7 p. m.

Q—Was Frederiksen there? A—No. I had supper there.

Q—Then what did you do? A—We went home, my wife and I.

Q—Did you sleep at home? A—Yes.

Q—You were there next morning? A—Yes.

The hearing was recessed until later in the day.

Western Author Visits Old Home

Marion A. Speer, author of "Western Trails," and a resident of Huntington Beach, spent several days recently in Silverton, Colo., and vicinity, his first trip there since leaving the engineering offices of the Silver Lake Mines 27 years ago.

According to a news item in the Silverton Standard, Speer, coming to Silverton as a young man, spent about five years in San Juan county during which time he graduated from the high school there in order to obtain proper credits to enter Colorado School of Mines at Golden. He graduated from "Mines," and spent vacations in engineering offices at the Silver Lake. Later he started writing Western stories.

Speer was accompanied to Silverton by W. L. Weiss, of Santa Ana.

LEGISLATURE'S 'INSIDE STORY' TO BE RELATED

"The Inside Story of the Legislature" will be the theme of Assemblyman John McCarthy of Los Angeles at the Temple Theater at 7:45 p. m. tomorrow.

McCarthy, who is now assemblyman from a Los Angeles county district and candidates for reelection, this time as a Democratic candidate in support of the Epic program, is making his only talk outside of his own district, at the special request of Manager Harry Gerhart and Herbert F. Kenny, assembly candidate.

"McCarthy comes prepared to give something of the background of the bills, of the personnel of the lobbies, of the corporations of institutions maintaining lobbies, and of the assemblymen who are influenced by lobbyists," Gerhart said.

"We usually think of bills being presented and urged and voted on by members of the legislature who either have a personal interest in these measures or at any rate believe they are for the public good. But the story which Assemblyman McCarthy tells is quite different.

It is said by him—and he gives names and circumstances—that many bills are prepared by lawyers who are in the employ of corporations, and that members of the assembly are induced in various ways to cast their votes for these measures."

Mr. Gerhart expects also to have another speaker on the same program who will add to the information to be offered by McCarthy.

START FINAL EFFORT FOR SCOUT FUND

With 74 business men meeting today noon for their final instruction meeting, more than 200 men and women in Santa Ana and Tustin are engaged in bringing the "Crusade for Understanding and Support" of the Boy Scouts of America movement to a close this week. All workers will meet tomorrow noon at La Casa Trabuco cafe for the first report luncheon at which time Crusaders will make reports of their progress.

Under the general chairmanship of William Jerome, leaders in the business divisions who met today included Colonels Plummer Bruns and Jules Markel, Majors H. E.

Holmes, E. G. Warner, Carlyle Dennis, E. A. Davidson, Theo Jesse, E. B. Sharpley, Ray Adkinson and Walter Swanberger.

"Wear your white knot," General Campaign Chairman W. H. Spurgeon Jr. told the workers today, "indicating that you are taking an active interest in the boys of this community. The Boy Scout movement is a local program administered by local men and the money being raised is to render service to the volunteer leaders who serve as Scoutmasters and assistants of the 25 groups of boys meeting in this community."

Spurgeon stressed the vital importance of character building activities for youth at this time, stating "we as citizens in this community are face to face at this time with the issue as to whether or not we actually are interested in having our community known as one that provides for its youth activity which will keep them from becoming itinerant delinquents or radicals. A place where balanced citizenship training and experiences stands out as one of our largest community achievements."

prosecution applied. At the trial Capone's attorneys claimed the three-year statute governed the case, and Judge Wilkerson upheld this contention.

The lawyers failed to raise this question in their appeal briefs so that it was not considered by the supreme court when it refused to review the Capone conviction earlier. Shortly afterward the court ruled in another case that the three-year statute prevailed in circumstances paralleling Capone's prosecution.

Once in Atlanta, Capone sought to overcome the error by bringing the present habeas corpus proceedings. The district court ruled against him, as did the fifth circuit court of appeals.

DEALERS FACE CHARGES FOR SALE TO MINORS

Charged with making sales of liquor to minors on October 6, which preceded a liquor party of eight high school youths, Ray Stapp and George Harris, proprietors of the Independent Ice House at Fifteenth and Main streets, were arrested by police Saturday and were scheduled to appear in police court for arraignment this afternoon.

The serving of arrest warrants on the two men followed the signing of a complaint by Roger E. Robb, 316 West Nineteenth street, father of a 16-year-old girl who participated in the party and became violently ill from drinking liquor allegedly purchased at the Ice House.

Officer C. W. Wolford and Police Matron Mrs. R. R. Russell questioned the eight youths on the party to learn details of the alleged liquor sales. They were told that the group drove up to the Ice House about supper time on Saturday, October 6, with the four boys all making individual purchases of liquor, including gin, Pisco punch, ginger ale and gin rickey, while the girls remained in the car.

The youths then drove to the home of one of the boys, whose parents were not at home, and drank part of the liquor, officers were told. One of the youths said that he broke his bottle of liquor in the sink and drove back to the Ice House with one of the girls and made another purchase of liquor, according to police reports. While those in the party were dancing and drinking, the daughter of the complaining witness became ill, climbed from a bedroom window and drove home in the car, leaving the rest of the group without transportation, it was reported to the officers.

Robb asked police to investigate the selling of liquor to the youths, all of whom were minors. Each of the four girls were 16 years of age, while two of the boys were 18 and two 17. Most of the group are high school students in Santa Ana and Orange.

The defendants were free without bond until their arraignment today.

SUSPECTS IN COURT TODAY ON 2 COUNTS

Facing two criminal counts, one of burglary and the other robbery, both based upon a cafe brawl in which the contents of the cash register disappeared, James McManners and James Kelsay, of Anaheim, went on trial today before a jury in Superior Judge George Scofield's court.

The two men were arrested following a disturbance September 25 in the Winking Eye cafe, operated by Grace Foley, at 426 North Grand street, Buena Park.

They became embroiled at that time with a waitress, Doris Jones, who struck McManners over the head with a bottle, inflicting a scalp wound which bled profusely.

After the melee it was discovered that $28.55 was missing from the cash drawer. However most of it was recovered, officers locating a cache of currency tucked under a corner of the building. The bills were blood spattered, it was said.

The burglary count charges the men with entering the cafe with the intent to commit theft. The robbery count accuses them of taking the money.

THEY ALL NEED ENERGY... SO THEY "GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL!"

THE fact that smoking a Camel does produce an increase in energy has drawn people in every walk of life to Camels.

On this page you will find Camel's "energizing effect" discussed by many smokers. They emphasize the fact that Camels do give them a healthful, enjoyable lift in energy when they are tired. They speak of the pleasure they get from Camel's mild, rich taste. And over and over comes word from steady smokers that Camels never interfere with healthy nerves.

And so—in light of the experiences of other smokers, and of the scientific evidence confirming Camel's "energizing effect"—turn to Camels yourself!

TOBACCO EXPERTS SAY:
"Camels are made from finer, more expensive tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."

PRODIGAL SON PARABLE TOPIC OF JACK BATES

Christianity is the only religion that appeals to prophecy for its authenticity, said Evangelist Jack Bates, preaching at the Broadway and Walnut Church of Christ Sunday morning, on the theme, "And He Arose and Came."

His sermon dealt with the story of the Prodigal Son, which he called the most touching of the many parables of Christ. He said in part:

"This statement is found in the most touching of the many parables of the Master, the story of the Prodigal Son. It is the story of a young man's search for God, and the record of his experience is so like that of our own that it goes straight to the heart; he went into a far country—sin; he wasted his substance—and when the mighty famine of isolation from God arose in his soul he found that only the broken husks of life awaited him and 'no man gave unto him.' This young man 'came to himself' and resolved to seek his father in humility 'And he arose and came' to be welcomed by his father with this cry, 'For this, my son, was dead and is alive; he was lost and is found.'

"E. Stanley Jones has remarked that it may be only a coincidence, yet it truly represents the spirit of the gospels that the last words of each of the four gospels put together are these: 'written' (John), 'world' (Matthew), 'recovery' (Mark), 'God, (Luke). The gospels have been written that the world might recover God. They are the story, not merely of man's search for God, but of God's search for man.

"The world is largely divided into three great divisions: the unbelievers, the believing who are not Christians, and those in Christ. The New Testament is designed and adapted for all the world—to

PASTOR SPEAKS OF CLASSES WHO REJECT JESUS, OR WHO ACCEPT ONLY ON OWN TERMS

Using the parable of the marriage feast to illustrate his text, "Many Are Called But Few Are Chosen," the Rev. H. W. Meyer, pastor of St. Peter Lutheran church, spoke Sunday evening on the two classes of people who reject Christ, and those who answer the call to Christ but insist on coming on their own terms.

He said, in part:

"The closing words of the parable of the marriage feast are 'Many are called, but few are chosen.' In this parable it is shown that Jesus understood that he was being rejected by those who were in authority, yet he reached out with a warning and appeal to save His people: 'He came to His own and His own received Him not.'

"In the preceding chapter, Matthew records the parable of the vineyard which portrays the consequences of rejecting God's Messiah. Israel was rejecting God's Messiah and Jesus referred to Himself as the Messiah when He quoted from the Old Testament, 'The stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner; this is the Lord's doing and is marvelous in our eyes.'

"There is a time when man rejects and there is a time when God rejects; the parable of the marriage feast indicates that. The king giving the feast is God; the wedding is the coming to earth of God's Son, 'When the fullness of time was come, God sent forth His Son, made of a woman, made under the law' (Gal. 4, 4). The feast itself is life and salvation through Christ; the guests who would not come were those of Israel, especially the authorities, who were rejecting Jesus of Nazareth as the Messiah of God. In His parable Jesus mentions two classes, first, those who reject because they are indifferent, too busy to investigate, to search the Scriptures to see if these things be true. That class is with us yet, sailing along in life's balmy sea, no harbor or port in view, just drifting along until something turns up. The second class was, murderously hostile—the remnant fit the needs of each group. The first four books of the gospels were written to prove that Christ is divine (Jno. 20:30, 31). In making a believer two things must be presented: 1. Something to believe, 2. Credible testimony—bringing that something to the human understanding by adequate witnesses.

"Christianity is the only religion that appeals to prophecy for its authority. In the account of Matthew alone are found seventy predictions of the prophets more or less clearly fulfilled in Jesus; where He would be born, the slaying of the innocents (Jer. 31:15); and His death in exact detail by the Psalmist of old portrayed. Gradually the work of the gospels is accomplished, 'This is my beloved Son—Hear ye Him!'

"One of the greatest arguments for the integrity of Christianity is the fact that it happened—how? Could twelve lone fishermen and men of humble station, who recently had seen their Master crucified to a Roman cross and their every hope dashed to the ground when He was laid in the tomb, stand a few days later in the very heart and center of religious opposition and convert three thousand to the doctrine they expounded, by their own lone strength?

"With this growing faith, the individual seeks on and asks with eagerness, 'Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?' In the next book containing some of the Acts of the Apostles, he finds that question answered in the words of Peter, 'Repent ye, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins; and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit.'

"He finds this command variously repeated in this account of the evangelization of the Jewish and Gentile world and he gladly obeys and is born into the kingdom of God on earth. There await him in the epistles that follow instructions and advice on how to live the Christian life to best effect 'teaching him how to live soberly, and righteously and

Christian Science

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" was the subject of the lesson-sermon yesterday at the Santa Ana First Church of Christ, Scientist.

Among the Bible selections were the words of Jesus, from Luke: "No man, when he hath lighted a candle, putteth it in a secret place, neither under a bushel, but on a candlestick, that they which come in may see the light. The light of the body is the eye: therefore when thine eye is single, thy whole body also is full of light; but when thine eye is evil, thy body also is full of darkness. Take heed therefore that the light which is in thee be not darkness."

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, included the statements: "We are sometimes led to believe that darkness is as real as light; but Science affirms darkness to be only a mortal sense of the absence of light, at the coming of which darkness loses the appearance of reality. So sin and sorrow, disease and death, are the suppositional absence of life, God, and flee as phantoms of error before truth and love."

MAKES WOODEN "CARTOON" ON PENSION PLAN

Showing the aims of the Townsend old age revolving pension plan, a clever cartoon constructed of wooden models is now on display at the pension headquarters at 218 West Fifth street.

The wooden "picture" was fashioned by W. J. Paul, 919 Minter street, in his spare time and includes a model airplane bearing a large bone, dog house, dog, and heavy chain, all mounted on a large board. The title of the creation is "Delivering the Poor Dog a Bone."

The trim little airplane, named "Congress," painted yellow with blue wings and red tail and propeller, has the large bone labeled "Townsend Pension Plan" hanging from the front. The small dog, representing the "U. S. Citizen" is securely chained to the miniature dog house. One of the chain links is broken nearly through to show the tremendous popularity of the pension plan. Paul said he wanted to have a perfect citizen at the controls of the airplane so carved out a small Indian in the cockpit. The big bone is larger than the dog and chain to show the magnitude and size of the plan in overcoming the troubles of the citizens of the country.

He expected that the models will be taken to various pension headquarters throughout the Southland after being exhibited here.

Popular prices will prevail, it was announced.

NEED FOR USE OF GOOD PAINT TOLD

"The wise property owner has learned it saves him money to employ a good painter and one who uses quality paint products," declared H. L. Pickett at the recent dinner meeting given by National Lead company to about 80 master painters and paint dealers of this city and vicinity. The chairman of the meeting was Ray Stauffer, manager of the host company's local branch, and the program was presented by H. L. Pickett and W. D. Herman of National Lead company, manufacturers of Dutch Boy paint products.

"But during the depression," Pickett continued, "many property owners tried to save money by buying 'cheap' paints and hiring inexperienced painters to apply them. The result was early paint failures that cost the property owners many times what they saved on the first cost of their painting jobs."

"Painters and paint dealers must use advertising and proper selling methods to convince the property owners that it pays to hire a good painter and use quality paint products." Several painting demonstrations were given by Herman to show the adaptability of Dutch Boy paint products in producing interior decorative effects and protective coatings on exterior surfaces. The meeting closed with a general discussion of business and craftsmanship problems.

Among the painter and dealer guests were representatives from Santa Ana, Costa Mesa, Fullerton, Garden Grove, Laguna Beach, Midway City, Balboa Island, Olive, Orange and Tustin.

Delfine Cordova, of El Modena, was sentenced to the county jail by Judge A. W. Swayze this morning for a period of 30 days on a charge of disturbing the peace. Cordova arrived home Saturday night from Escondido and was unable to find his wife.

In search for her, Cordova is said to have torn the screens from the windows of two neighboring homes. He is said to have been armed with an ice pick during his search. Charges were brought by Al Herrera, one of the neighbors whose screens was torn from his home. Cordova was given an alternative of paying a $50 fine, which he was unable to do. Constable George Bartley was the arresting officer. According to reports, Cordova had been drinking wine.

Dr. Nicol is now in charge of the Presbyterian mission in Syria. He has been in that country 29 years.

LABOR LEADER TO VISIT PRESIDENT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—(UP)—Ordered by the executive council to confer directly with President Roosevelt in protesting the NRA appointment given S. Clay Williams, tobacco man, Pres. William Green of the American Federation of Labor prepared today to leave for Washington.

Green said that he and other A. F. of L. representatives will seek an audience with Mr. Roosevelt to impress on him that the presence of the Reynolds Tobacco Co. chairman as administrative chief of the new NRA setup is "odious" to labor.

The council considered the Williams case in finding up post-convention business yesterday. No announcement was made concerning the choice of a site for the 1935 convention, for which Akron, Ohio, is an earnest bidder.

RESULT OF LAMSON DECISION DELAYED

SAN JOSE, Cal., Oct. 15.—(UP)—Santa Clara county officials today began a study of the state supreme court decision ordering a new trial for David A. Lamson to determine what course to follow in the case of the young Stanford intellectual convicted here on a charge of slaying his wife.

Three counties were open to District Attorney Fred Thomas. He may appeal to the state's highest court asking the tribunal to reconsider its decision. He may make arrangements immediately to bring Lamson to trial a second time. Or he may decide to drop the case entirely. "No decision will be reached on whether or not a second trial will be held until we have completed the study of the court ruling," Thomas said.

MOEUR SILENT ON PHOENIX UPRISING

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 15.—(UP)—Gov. B. B. Moeur declined to comment today on a public demonstration in which he, Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes and Congressman Isabella Greenway were burned in effigy by 500 angry farmers in Paradise valley, 25 miles north of here.

After the three public officials had been "hanged," the crowd dragged their "bodies" to a remote section of the valley and destroyed the stuffed figures on a funeral pyre.

The farmers were angered at Secretary Ickes' rejection of an irrigation project loan which would have brought irrigation water to the valley.

The score was 9-0 as the De-tigers went to bat in the tenth inning of the payoff game which perhaps was the wildest and roughest world series in history.

The score was right on two runs.

The St. Louis Cardinals had used the plate that many times, and the game should have been forgotten in what perhaps was the most disgraceful scene in the annals of the sport.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, supreme commissioner of baseball, took the easy and only way out when he ordered young Joe Medwick from the game "to prevent a riot."

Under the circumstances, Landis' decision was a level-headed one.

But it also established a precedent for the throwing of things.
Here's a hard-new way for home fans to help their club. Just shoot an opposing star loudly and chuck bottles and fruit or anything handy long enough. The umpire-in-chief no doubt will give him
the bum's rush. That's what Landis did.

Happily for Landis the score of the deciding game of the world series was so lopsided that the Cardinals made little protest.
One could not help but wonder what would have happened had
the game that meant the world championship and $42,500.00—
the difference between the winning and losing share of the players' prize money—been air tight.
There is little doubt but that a forfeiture against the idolized Tigers before the hysterical crowd at Navin Field would have resulted in a riot.

EXCUSE MY SPIKES

Yet that is what would have transpired had Landis not been present, for Harry Geisel, the umpire-in-chief, had the watch out, and the veteran Bill Klem declared that the game would have been forfeited had it been up to him to decide.

Landis dived the world series arbiters of the power to give the athletes the gate as the result of criticism in connection with Heinie Manush, of the Senators, being banished in the Washington club's series with the Giants last fall.

Mixups like the one between Medwick and Owen frequently take place in hard-played games.
It just happened to be the one too many in a series marked by vicious base-running, and ignited
the aroused feelings of the addicts. Klem, stationed at third base, explained that he would not have put Medwick out of a game for what the Hungarian kid did in the heat of battle on this occasion.

Medwick tripped, the butt of

the right-field bleachers to score Mardin. In order to escape being knocked out of reach of the ball thrown from the outfield, Owen got off balance. When his right foot came down it landed on Med-wick's leg, and the pair sprawled on the ground.

Owen sat on Ernie Orsatti's head in a similar situation the day before. In the kind of a series it was, Medwick's idea of a good way to get Owen off of him was to kick the third baseman in the stomach with both spiked shoes.

Fists seemed about to fly, and the players of both clubs swarmed around the belligerents. When order was restored and play was about to resume, Medwick offered to shake hands, but Owen waved him away. Owen also refused to make up when they were called before Landis 15 minutes later.

The game was delayed for 17 minutes when the Cardinals took the field, the better part of which fans in the temporary bleachers
in left field showered Medwick with fruit, buns, hot dogs, and other vittines, and empty pop and milk bottles.

CARDS ENJOY SHOWER

The nonchalant Cardinals apparently enjoyed the sport. Medwick fielded the fruit, and threw it at cameramen who dashed out to obtain close-ups. Orsatti joined him in giving the customers a show in return by playing catch with an orange. Medwick and Martin participated in a screwy pepper game with stray bits of fruit.

After the Cardinals scored their last two runs in the seventh session, the left field bleacher fans, appeased by the replacement of Medwick by the veteran Chick Pulis, shouted, "We want a touchdown!"

It would have taken a couple of touchdowns to have beaten the Cardinals. And touchdowns weren't being made against Dizzy Dean.

It was Dean himself who in the third inning launched the attack that quickly turned the contest into the most devastating and riotous since Thermopylae. He hit an outside curve to left field and,
when Goose Goslin was slow in handling the ball, executed a slide into second base that would have done Ty Cobb credit.

On reaching first base on his second hit of the round—a slow roller to Owen—the amusing Dean held up the game until he ascertained whether he had been credited with a hit. Dizzy likes to keep track of his personal statistics.

"Is that a hit?" he yelled to the official tally keeper, seated in the press box 'way up there on the grandstand roof. Wigwaged that it had been no adjudged, Dizzy slipped into his red sweater coat,
and the game proceeded.

Medwick tripped, the butt of

PERINCH MAY PLAY BLOCKING BACK POSITION

Shaken by a 20-6 defeat from Citrus in a contest recorded as the most amazing upset in Eastern conference football history, Riverside junior college, one of the titular favorites, will seek a desperate comeback against Santa Ana's champions at Riverside Saturday. Another defeat and Coach Jesse Mortensen's Bengals will eliminate themselves from the 1934 race.

Santa Ana and Chaffey displayed great offensive strength in 19-3
and 19-7 victories over Pomona
and San Bernardino, respectively.
Swept off their feet in the first half, both came back to score three touchdowns in the final two quarters.

Intercepted passes gave the San Diego Army and Navy academy jays a 19-0 win over a favored Fullerton club in a non-conference brush.

In the Western division, the Long Beach Vikings succumbed to Glendale, 15-7; Los Angeles, the defending champion, trounced Ventura 13-6; and Pasadena defeated Santa Monica 6-2. Drawing the first bye, Compton lived up to its reputation as '34 favorite by trimming the powerful U. S. C.
Freshmen 9-0 at Compton.

What happened to Riverside of the Eastern division? Coach Bill
Cook, who scouted the Citrus-Riverside tilt for his Santa Ana Don's at Azusa Saturday, had a ready answer to this question to-
day. He remarked:

"Without taking any credit from Al Claves and his plucky Citrus Owls, I believe Riverside was off form Saturday. It looked nothing like the team that crushed the U. C. L. A. freshmen, 46-0, the week before. It might have been a different story if Riverside's line had not played spotty football.
The heavy backfield showed tremendous possibilities.

"I look for Riverside to display
a complete reversal of form against Santa Ana this week. Our team can drop two games and expect to remain in the conference race,
and for this reason I fear the Bengals will be playing over their heads against the Don's. Our 13-6 victory here last season will not help matters."

Because he blocks so well, Paul Perinch, the 155-pound letterman, will be shifted from end to right halfback in Santa Ana's drill at the Bowl this week. Coach Cook is making the change for two reasons: (1) he needs a capable understudy to Bob Phillips, the 180-pound Garden Grove boy who played his best game against Pomona; and (2) Walter Gunther, 160-pound letterman, is such a splendid pass-receiver that the coaching staff must find a regular position for him at right end.

Perinch will continue to play end
on defense, but will shift to outside halfback on offense when Gunther enters the game at right
end. Frank Kroener and Ben Slavin have the left wing position well under control.

Cook also proposes to give 210-pound Ray Nowotny a chance at left tackle. Nelson Rogers, Tus-tin boy, is showing up well, but the Don's need more reserve strength at this position.

Dick Moore, the hard driving fullback, who scored Santa Ana's third touchdown against Pomona, has been promoted to the second line and will team with a combination led by Quarterback Bruce Harnold.

Charging Coach Bob McNeish
was not properly informed in regard to the new conference ruling on transfers, San Bernardino has protested the game which Chaffey won from the Indians, 19-7, at Ontario Saturday. Three San Bernardino stars—Chamberlain, Sorenson and Grubbs—were declared ineligible on account of the new resident ruling, which requires transfers from other colleges to attend their new school one semester before competing in athletics. The three enrolled from Modesto jays in September.

A copy of conference ruling did not contain the new resident ruling, and McNeish continued to construct his team under the impression the trio was eligible. He was notified otherwise only 24 hours before the game, it was claimed.

hunting stamp which you must stick on your license next Saturday if you go a-hunting. These stamps, about twice the size of a special delivery, sell for $1 at post offices in cities over 2500 population. Revenue will be used by the government to purchase marshland sanctuaries for propagation of migratory waterfowl.

With the duck season opening at sunrise Saturday, many hun-tlers have been receiving regarding shooting days, bag and possession limits, species that can be legally taken, and baiting of ponds.

The season and bag limits on migratory waterfowl have been fixed by the U. S. Biological Survey, which has given each state
the privilege of 50 shooting days,
to be taken between Oct. 1 and
Jan. 15. The California Fish and Game commission elected to start the season Oct. 20 at sunrise and close at sunset Dec. 30, shooting days to be Saturdays and Sundays.

Instead of taking the full 30 days allowed by the Biological Survey, California cut the season to 11 weeks of two days each, Saturdays and Sundays. Many hunters have asked why the open days were not a week end with a mid-week day. Federal law especially sets forth that all shooting days must be consecutive and must be the same for each week

the season is open. After conferring with sportsmen, the commission selected Saturdays and Sundays as the days that would please the most people.

All hunters must have a
state hunting license and purchase a Federal waterfowl stamp, which may be obtained at any post office in a city
of 2500 or more population.
This stamp is to be placed on the state hunting license.

Not more than 25 live duck decoys may be used, and no live
goose decoys are permitted.

The shooting day is from sunrise to sunset, except on premises that have baited ponds when shooting must cease at 3 p. m.
The bag limit on ducks is 12
with a possession of 24.

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 15.—Increasing its string of victories to four straight since capturing the international star boat series at San Francisco last month, the By-C of Newport harbor, skippered by Myron Lehman, captured first place in the inter-club races held at Long Beach, then led the field home in a 30-mile race to Newport harbor yesterday.

The By-C scampered home two minutes and one second in the van of its club rival, the Sir Salty, sailed by Doug McKinnon. Total elapsed time for the winner was 4 hours, 1 minute and 45 seconds. Third place was taken by another Newport yacht, Foss Sampson's Westwind, in 4 hours, 9 minutes and 53 seconds, to give the local club a clean sweep of the event. Ziegler's Win-Blu, Long Beach, came in in fourth place.

Saturday's five-mile jaunt at Long Beach was taken by the By-C, with the Win Blu, sailed by Bob Ziegler, Long Beach, second, and McKinnon's Newport third. The winning time Saturday was 1 hour, 24 minutes and 2 seconds. Third and final races of the inter-club series will be sailed on the Balboa course next Saturday and Sunday, October 20-21.

In the meantime, at a meeting of directors of the Newport Harbor Yacht club, held Saturday night, preliminary plans for the holding of the 1935 star regatta at the Newport club were discussed, and committee heads appointed. A letter from the International Star Racing association asking that the event be held here August 23 to 28. ## CHURCH WORK COMPLETED BY THANKSGIVING

WINTERSBURG, Oct. 15.—Celebrating the 30th anniversary of the founding of the Japanese Presbyterian church in Wintersburg, one of the oldest Japanese missions in California, work is well underway on the erection of a new $5500 church edifice at Southern street and Wintersburg road.

The Rev. K. Kikuchi, pastor of the church for the last nine years, has directed a financial campaign for the past four years to provide funds for the new church, and with more than half of the total already subscribed, has approved the new plans. It is expected that the work will be completed by Thanksgiving.

Through the generosity of C. M. Furuta, elder of the church, an adjoining lot to the former church site was donated to make room for the spacious church, which will face on Wintersburg road. The old building, built more than 20 years ago, is being moved to the rear of the property to serve as a social hall, Sunday school rooms and boys' club.

The new section of the church is 30 by 81 feet in size, while the main auditorium is 58 feet long and will seat 300 persons. This is divided by a folding partition to provide quarters for the Christian Endeavor and Sunday school groups. A Sunday school room is on each side of the raised rostrum, while the other end of the church is fitted up into a kitchen, pastor's study, rest rooms and cloak rooms. The building will be of white stucco, with shingle roof.

The building plans of the congregation were set back several years ago when the closing of a bank wiped out more than $500. Through contributions from Japanese of Orange county and members of other county Presbyterian churches, the fund has been replenished. Dr. Thomas H. Walker of the Anaheim Presbyterian church had led the campaign, while Dr. Guy Wadsworth of the Church Extension board in Los Angeles has assisted. The plans for the building were drawn by Everett E. Parks of Anaheim.

ART ASSOCIATION PROPOSES FORMATION OF NEW COUNCIL

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 15.—Organization of a council of allied arts, acting as a conference center and clearing house for the various art interests of the colony, was proposed at the regular monthly meeting of the Laguna Beach Art association held Saturday night at the galleries on Cliff drive.

Membership in the proposed council, discussion revealed, would be limited to representatives of organized art groups, chosen by their respective affiliations. Organizations that would be represented on the council would be the Laguna Beach Art association, Community players, Civic players, Music Lovers' club, South Coast Symphony orchestra and any other body composed of artists and devoted to the promotion of art.

President George K. Brandriff was asked to name a preliminary working committee for the purpose of contacting members of other art organizations interested in the proposal.

One of the functions of the proposed council would be to act as a clearing house for setting dates of plays, concerts, shows, entertainments and other events staged by different groups, thus avoiding confusion and divided patronage. Another function of the council would be to act as an advisory body in matters of mutual interest as well as to give the members of the art colony a better and more effective representation in the community.

Work on the jetty extensions at the harbor entrance was continued Saturday, with the dumping of 2000 tons of rock at the base of the jetties. ## ROTARIANS HEAR SCOUT EXECUTIVE

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 15.—Harrison White, Boy Scout executive, and Sheriff Logan Jackson were the speakers at the regular luncheon meeting of the Laguna Beach Rotary club held Friday at the White House cafe. In the absence of President Frank Hovener, the chair was occupied by Arthur C. Peterson, vice-president. Capt. George A. Portus was in charge of the program, which was devoted to the discussion of Boy Scout activities.

Harrison presented an interesting report of the Scout movement in the county, dealing particularly with its outdoor activities and the summer camps. He was followed by Sheriff Jackson, who touched upon the character building feature of the movement. Surveys conducted at penal institutions, Jackson said, reveal that but few of the inmates had been members of Boy Scout troops.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN

©1934 NEA SERVICE INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Who killed Tracy King, orchestra leader found dead in his apartment? David Bannister, author, former newspaper reporter, is unlikely to find out.

Police are searching for an "unknown blond" who killed King shortly before his death. Bannister has seen this girl, but she has disappeared since.

Henry Scurlish, who wrote King a threatening letter, is in jail. He declares his innocence. Bannister works on the case with J. Randolph Galt, star reporter of the Post.

In the dead man's apartment Bannister picks up an old-fashioned wedding picture which he keeps.

Al Dragan, friend of King's, says the orchestra leader had been having trouble with Joe Parrott, his former vaudeville partner, and accused Parrott of the murder.

Police and Bannister go to see wealthy Denise Lang, King's fiancée. Parker Coleman, an old friend, also calls. Denise's father enters the room, sees the newspaper men and demands angrily, "What is the meaning of this?"

father's behavior. Whatever it was, there was only a fraction of a second before Bannister had turned away. A moment later he and Galt were in the hall. The maid supplied their hats and the two men stepped outside.

Galt snorted. "The old crocodile! Say, who does he think he is, anyway? I'd like to bounce him on the head! I'd like to tell him a thing or two!"

"Well, you'll have to pick another time," Bannister assured him. I thought we'd better get out before the old duffer had apoplexy. Certainly doesn't love the brethren of the press much, does he?"

Galt's mutterings subsided in gentle profanity. He concluded, "Gosh, but it's cold," and turned up his coat collar.

The wind, as Parker Coleman had informed them, was coming from the west. It was a gale with a nip in it, a promise of frosty nights to come. Overhead the sky was starless and the only light came from a none too bright street lamp a dozen yards ahead, where the walk leading to the house branched off from the main sidewalk.

Heads bent to protect themselves from the wind, Galt and Bannister set off.

"How're we going to get down town?" Bannister wanted to know. "There's a car line over here a couple of blocks or so," Galt told him. "It's the only way I know. Say, the more I think of the nerve of that guy—"

Bannister produced a package and a lighter. When the three cigarettes were glowing Coleman leaned back in the seat.

"I followed you," he explained, "because Denise can handle her father better than anyone else and I thought it would be easier for her if they were alone. Denise Lang is—well, you see, we've been the best of friends ever since we were kids. Denise is absolutely 100 per cent!" There was feeling in the man's voice. Easy to guess how he felt about Denise Lang! "I stopped in tonight," he went on, "to see if there was anything I could do for her. Of course there isn't. There's nothing, I suppose, that anyone can do. The thing is—too terrible!"

"I suppose you knew Tracy King too?" Galt asked.

"Well, yes. I've seen him out at the club and met him once or twice with Denise. Very likable fellow, I thought. Very likable! If you'd known him at all you'd know how utterly preposterous it is to think that anyone could murder him."

He hesitated. "I suppose it was murder?" he asked. "The police are sure of that?"

"It couldn't have been anything else," Galt told him. "Charlie Westwood, the coroner, told me there were no powder burns. Besides, a man can't shoot himself without a gun. Whoever shot that bullet took the gun away."

Coleman's lips set in a straight line. "Poor Denise!" he said. "She's trying to be brave about it. It struck me," Bannister put in, "that the father was more hysterical than the daughter. I shouldn't think a man like that would be any too pleased to have his daughter engaged to marry the master of ceremonies in a movie theater."

"I don't suppose he was," Coleman agreed, "but he's never denied Denise anything in her life. He couldn't very well start doing it now. He's a rather hard man to understand. I don't pretend to understand him and I've known him all my life."

Bannister's line of thought changed suddenly. "You must have been with Miss Lang," he said, "at the time that bullet hit King." He turned toward Galt. "Didn't the coroner figure it was between nine and nine-thirty that King died?"

"Right," Galt nodded.

Coleman's eyes left the road ahead for an instant. "Is that a fact?" he asked. "I didn't know they could estimate the time so exactly."

Galt launched into a technical explanation of the coroner's work. Bannister found the details a trifle nauseous and deliberately tried not to listen. Between 9 and 9:30 the night before he remembered only too well where he himself had been. A picture of the girl in the taxicab flashed before him—the girl in the green suit. It must have been almost 9:30 when he met her and 20 minutes later when he left her at the hotel. Tracy King had died between 9 and 9:30, the coroner said. Well, the coroner was an accurate man, extremely accurate in his work.

He heard Coleman asking if he should turn at the next block, and Galt's answer in the affirmative. A minute more and the reporter had drawn up before the ancient brick building that served as Central Police Headquarters.

Bannister and Galt stepped out of the car. Coleman waved aside their thanks for the lift, and the roadster was off again down the street.

"That's a nice guy," Galt commented as he mounted the steps of the building.

Bannister nodded. "Wouldn't you think Denise Lang would prefer him to the crooning orchestra leader?"

"Aw nuts!" Galt became suddenly philosophical. "Who can tell anything about a woman?"

Inside the building they paused to speak to a blue-coated officer. Yes, he said, Captain McNeal was around the building somewhere. Just came in half an hour before. They might look in his office upstairs.

For the second time that day Bannister climbed the flight of stairs.

3 HOSPITALS INCLUDED ON APPROVED LIST

Three Orange county hospitals, the Orange County General hospital, St. Joseph's hospital and the Santa Ana Valley hospital, which are complying with the requirements for approval, have been accorded a place on the approved list of the American College of Surgeons. It was announced today in a dispatch from Chicago.

Dr. Franklin H. Martin, founder and director general of the American College of Surgeons, in presenting today the seventeenth annual report of the hospital standardization of the college, said:

"Hospital care in the United States and Canada, despite trying economic times of the last five years, has shown a most gratifying improvement in service. Hospitals approved by the American College of Surgeons have been successful in their determined efforts to provide efficient care for the sick and injured."

Dr. Martin explained that a hospital to obtain approval must comply with certain definite requirements laid down by the American College of Surgeons. These include particularly the maintenance of organized medical staffs of ethical, competent physicians; complete medical records; adequate laboratory and X-ray facilities; and a thorough review and analysis of the clinical work of the hospital each month so as to carefully check up on the results of the professional activities within the hospital, analyze, and seek to improve them.

"Two significant facts of much importance to the public are revealed in this year's survey," says Dr. Martin. "The death rate in hospitals is even below that of last year, and the period of hospitalization has been shortened. Results have improved despite the fact that patients coming to hospitals today usually arrive in a more serious state, with a more advanced condition than in former years, because of stringent economic conditions. More efficient medical and hospital services are evident also through a material reduction in the number of chronic or incurable patients."

A steady increase in the number of patients hospitalized is reported by staff officials of St. Joseph's hospital.

The growth of the hospital has been steady since its establishment in September, 1929, and now has a staff numbering 91 physicians and surgeons, all of Orange county. Five new members have been added to the staff this month.

The board of control of the hospital has announced the appointment of the following staff members to serve as the executive board for the coming year: Doctors H. A. Johnston, president; A. H. Domann, J. L. Maroon, J. M. Burlew, D. A. Harwood, R. E. Hawes, A. C. Robbins, and Glen Curtis. Dr. Hawes will act as secretary of the board.

The following officers were elected by the staff for the ensuing year: Dr. Milo K. Tedstrom, chairman; F. E. Earell, vice-chairman; Dr. Newell Moore, secretary. These officers will arrange the monthly programs for staff meetings, assisted by Dr. M. W. Hollingsworth.

Politically Speaking

BY GEORGE E. HELMER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 15.—(UP)—"Who do you think will win the election?"

That question, voiced in almost any group, is the signal for a lengthy argument.

On the one side, Merriam has the bulk of influential support. A great majority of newspapers, prominent people and big business interests are supporting the acting governor. Campaign funds available to the Merriam camp are admittedly far greater than any other gubernatorial candidate ever claimed. No bet is being overlooked in the immense drive for Merriam votes.

On the other hand, Sinclair seems to have no powerful monetary support. Many prominent Democrats are opposing him. Yet, his campaign has assumed the proportions of a crusade. He packs halls whenever he speaks. His forces controlled the Democratic state convention and state central committee meeting. His Epic plan is discussed everywhere.

Behind these two, Raymond L. Haight, fighting young attorney who is the Progressive-Commonwealth candidate for governor, is waging a vigorous campaign with the aid of young men who are attempting to swing the vote to the "middle of the road." His is almost a one-man fight, and he takes pot-shots at both the other candidates.

There appears no way of telling who will have the most support how many votes Haight will poll, and whether Haight's presence will have an decided effect on the final outcome. There is no way to determine the attitude of nearly 1,500,000 registered voters who did not exercise their franchise in the primary but who probably will swarm to the polls in November. Impromptu polls list a good percentage of people who decline to state their preference—who have not decided whom to support.

Sinclair is the Democratic candidate, and Democratic registration surpasses Republican. But how many Democrats will bolt? How many Republicans will desert their party? Reports indicate a Democratic upheaval far greater than any Republican unrest.

Many business men who favor Merriam are reported to be advising their employees to do likewise. Hoy many employees will "follow orders," realizing that their bosses will have no way of learning how they actually vote?

How much influence will propaganda linking Sinclair with communism and atheism have on the vote?

These are some of the perplexing problems and questions discussed by the electorate and by observers who attempt to predict the outcome.

Some persons who have had wide experience with elections believe Sinclair has the support of the articulate minority, while the inarticulate, or silent, masses will say little but will vote for Merriam. Some claim Sinclair has passed his peak and that Merriam is gaining strength.

If Haight received the vote of everyone who says, "Haight would make a good governor but hasn't much chance so I don't think I'll vote for him," he would become a stronger factor in the race.

Merriam campaign supporters who are flooding the state with publicity are injecting more and more charges of communism and atheism into their attacks on Sinclair.

Sinclair predicted some months ago that this campaign would be the most vicious the state has experienced.

Final Tribute of France Paid to Slain King

France paid last sorrowing tribute to King Alexander I, assassinated on French soil, before his body was placed aboard the Yugo-Slavian cruiser Dubrovnik for the journey to his homeland. This picture shows the funeral services in front of the vessel, the royal flag at half mast and the coffin directly in front of it, with French dignitaries standing with bared heads and ship's officers lined up at the rail. In the background are the buildings of Marseilles. This picture was radioed from Marseilles to New York.

CONVENTION TO BE HELD HERE ON SYNCROTAX

Adherents of the Syncrotax plan will hold a state convention in Santa Ana near the date of the November election and continue efforts to have the principles of the plan incorporated into a constitutional amendment. It was learned here today following a conference of leaders in Fresno.

The date of the convention here will not be definitely set until closer to the time of the election, depending upon whether or not the amendment now pending can be rewritten before November 6. The original proposition, which was ruled off the ballot by the state supreme court on technical grounds, will be presented to the convention in the form of a new petition for a constitutional amendment.

Leaders of the movement said that sentiment was strong in Southern California for the convention and the idea of continuing the campaign to have state tax laws on a more equitable basis. Delegates returning from Fresno were unanimous in the opinion that real and common property must be relieved of the inequitable tax load it is now carrying and that the tax base must be broadened to take in all taxable values without discrimination or preference to any group, it was said.

The name of the new enterprise will probably be known as the "Gross Transactions Tax Association of California," following somewhat the original idea of State Controller Ray Riley for a transactions tax, but extending his proposed suggestions.

MANY STUDENTS AT H. S. FROM OTHER STATES

An even hundred students in Santa Ana high school, nearly a tenth of the total student body, come from out of town, an examination of residence statistics revealed today.

They come from other towns in Orange county and in California, and from 16 other states, one from as far away as New Jersey, although most of them are west-coasters.

Of the 100 out-of-towners, 67 are residents of California while 33 have their home towns in the 16 other states.

Of these latter, Iowa, as usual, is the largest contributor, with five, being ahead of even the neighboring western states: Idaho, Utah, Montana and Colorado contribute three each. Arizona, Oregon, Kansas, Minnesota and South Dakota each is represented by two students. Texas, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Missouri and New Jersey sent one each.

Washington, Nevada and New Mexico are the western states not represented.

Place Cards Are Used To Tell Date Of November Nuptials

Entertaining a few friends at dinner last night in the home of her mother, Mrs. Mina King, 8 street, Tustin, Miss Marion Taylor announced the date of her approaching marriage to slandard Beatty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Beatty of Balboa, as November 30.

Dinner appointments were a charming application of the bride theme, seeming doubly appropriate when the guests learned the romantic news. The table was spread with a lace cloth and centered with all white flowers shining in the radiance of white tapers. Bridal place cards were used and to each was attached by white satin ribbons, a small scroll bearing the wedding date announcement.

Places were indicated for Miss Taylor, hostess, her fiancé, Mr. Beatty, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Salisbury and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Perrie, of Los Angeles. Mrs. King, assisting her daughter in receiving the guests, served the inviting dinner menu.

Miss Taylor graduated from Santa Ana Junior college after completing the course at Tustin Union High school. Mr. Beatty had college work at Santa Ana Junior college and graduated from University of Southern California. He is working with the board of education of this city and is assistant athletic coach at Junior college.

Party Guests Spend Evening Sewing For Honoree

Mrs. Herbert Enns of Shafter, Calif., formerly of Santa Ana, was complimented at a stork shower given last week when Mrs. Curtis M. Pearson was hostess in her home, 1629 West Eighth street.

The evening was spent in hemming diapers which were presented to Mrs. Enns together with other gifts. Mrs. Enns was told that she might hold Willard Pearson, six-months-old son of the home for a while. However when his blanket was brought in, it proved to be bundled around shower packages instead of the tiny boy.

Assisted by her mother, Mrs. A. C. Wiebe, Mrs. Pearson served refreshments at tables centered with pink tapers.

Present with Mrs. Enns were her mother, Mrs. L. F. Boese and Mesdames A. A. Klingenberg, R. L. Planchon, Ernest Peters, Seldou Martin, A. C. Wiebe and the Misses Martha Hume, Jeannette Lewis, Eunice Blanchard, Jean Bishop, Betty Wood, Janet Martin and the hostess, Mrs. Pearson.

Two Charter Members Take Special Part In Celebration

Reminiscent of Ebell Music, Art and Drama section's early meetings many years ago was a celebration of the group's 34th birthday celebration held Friday afternoon when one of its charter members, Mrs. Mitt Phillips, was hostess in her home, 1506 North Main street.

With Mrs. Victor Montgomery, another original member of the section, Mrs. Phillips took special part in the program. The hostess sang two songs, the first, "The Wanderer" (Schumann), which she had sung 34 years ago at the section's first meeting; the second, "The Lass With the Delicate Air," one of her favorite selections, for which she played her own accompaniment. Mrs. W. B. Snow accompanied her for the first number.

Mrs. Montgomery contributed original verses to the program. Her daughters, the Misses Louise and Gertrude Montgomery, read others of her poems, the latter presenting one to music played by her sister.

Members responded to roll call with accounts of vacation experiences. Guests found the dining room especially attractive, with its decorated table centered with a birthday cake lighted with 34 tapers rising from the letter's "34" written on its frosting. Mrs. Montgomery cut the first slice of the confection, which was served with ice cream and coffee.

Decorated with wedding bells, flowers and ferns, the church basement was setting for a reception attended by 125 guests. Wedding cake was served with ice cream.

The auditorium was filled with friends assembled for the ceremony read at 8 o'clock by the pastor, the Rev. E. A. Archer. In the background was a dream house, which was visible through a latticed archway arranged at the altar. Ferns and flowers completed decorations.

The bridegroom's sister, Miss Dorothy Wheeler, a maid of honor, was in green taffeta with a bouquet of pink roses. Raymond Burbank was best man, while Roe Shanklin and Paul Beatty were ushers.

Importance of Reading Emphasized in Talk For Ebell Group

Mrs. Robert Alexander, Mrs. Rodney Bacon, Mrs. Emmett Raitt and Mrs. Earl Abbey, comprising the October hostess group for Ebell Modern Literature section, Friday were privileged to entertain their sister members in the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spencer, 2351 North Park boulevard.

Flowers from the home gardens were augmented by quantities of fine dahlias, culled from Mrs. Raitt's garden, until the section program was given a most colorful and artistic setting. Mrs. Lloyd D. Chenoweth, leader, conducted this program, introducing as speaker, Mrs. E. E. Smith, chairman of literature in California Federation of Women's clubs.

Mrs. Smith offered a list of books of current interest, ranging from those on serious subjects pertaining to economics, world conditions and biographies, to current fiction of importance. She sketched salient features of each book in very interesting manner, and stressed the importance of budgeting time for reading, and the advisability of reading for quality rather than for quantity.

Importance of Reading Emphasized in Talk For Ebell Group

Mrs. Robert Alexander, Mrs. Rodney Bacon, Mrs. Emmett Raitt and Mrs. Earl Abbey, comprising the October hostess group for Ebell Modern Literature section, Friday were privileged to entertain their sister members in the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Spencer, 2351 North Park boulevard.

Flowers from the home gardens were augmented by quantities of fine dahlias, culled from Mrs. Raitt's garden, until the section program was given a most colorful and artistic setting. Mrs. Lloyd D. Chenoweth, leader, conducted this program, introducing as speaker, Mrs. E. E. Smith, chairman of literature in California Federation of Women's clubs.

Mrs. Smith offered a list of books of current interest, ranging from those on serious subjects pertaining to economics, world conditions and biographies, to current fiction of importance. She sketched salient features of each book in very interesting manner, and stressed the importance of budgeting time for reading, and the advisability of reading for quality rather than for quantity.

Poor Duncy! He thought he'd be cute, and with the bakery wagon scoot away to have a dandy ride. Thus he got in a fix. The bakery driver said, "Well, son, I'll help you have your little fun, but you will have to walk back. That's one of my clever tricks."

"Aw, wait!" cried Duncy. "Kindly stop, so I will have a chance to drop off to the ground. I'm tired and I don't want to walk real far."

The driver raced on for a while and then he yelled, "Whoa," with a smile, and added, as the horse stopped, "Okay, Duncy, there you are!"

"I think you're mean as you can be. A long, long walk's ahead of me," said Duncy. Then he started out to hike back to the rest.

In 'bout an hour he reached the bunch, and Scouty said, "I have a hunch you tried to fool that driver, but by him you were out-guessed."

"Don't rub it in," snappled Duncy. "Gee, I know he got the best of me. Right now, I'm going to take a nap. I'm sure that I'll sleep sound."

Fair Doty heard him, and she said, "You'd better stay awake, instead. The bakers now are spreading a big cake upon the ground."

"Come on and see it. What a sight! I only hope it turns out right. They plan to form a big roll cake. Let's help them, if we can."

Wee Duncy jumped up to his feet and said, "I wouldn't miss that treat." Then, with the other Tynies, to the great big cake he ran.

Brave Scouty shouted, "Bless my soul! That looks just like a jelly roll." "It is," replied a baker, "but the jelly is left out."

"We're rolling this big cake for you, 'cause with it strange things you can do. Just stay right here and we'll soon show you what it's all about."

SAFETY PROGRAM SHOULD INCLUDE IMPORTANT OMISSION

We want to commend the safety program that has been inaugurated by the highway patrol. It appears that under the direction of the chief, E. Raymond Cato, Patrolman George Stinson, who has gained considerable reputation by his voice in musical circles, and Captain Meehan, both of this county, will conduct meetings throughout the state. They will call the attention of the people to the ghastly increase in the number and seriousness of accidents on the highway.

A meeting was held the other night at the Bowl, where some 2,000 people listened to the program, enjoyed Mr. Stinson's singing and were impressed by the statistics of the accidents. We would call attention, however, to one thing that was omitted, and certainly ought not to be omitted at any meeting that is being conducted.

This omission, among the statistics, was in respect to the increase of these accidents due to drunken driving and other conditions related to drink. Singularly, no reference was made to this very striking condition.

There was an analysis of the cause of accidents given, such as speed, failure to observe boulevard stop signs, passing on the right side, etc. But the causes of the speed, and of the failure to stop at signs, as they relate themselves to liquor and the habits into which people are getting, were not referred to.

Yet we will quote, in part, what Mr. Cato himself said last February, on this very matter:

For several weeks the California Highway patrol has watched with growing concern the alarming rate of increase of California accidents in which drunken driving was involved.

We must face these facts. Reports received by us for January indicate an increase of more than 11 per cent in fatalities involving drunken drivers compared with January of 1933. February figures appear to indicate an increase that is even greater.

Our figures for 1933 show an appalling increase. Indeed they show a 40 per cent increase in fatal accidents involving drunken driving and a 26 per cent increase in all types of accidents in which drinking played a part.

We cannot disregard these figures. Therefore, I call upon every citizen who believes in the enjoyment of personal liberty to assist us in stamping out this evil.

Alcoholic beverages have been enjoyed by mankind for centuries. But our ancestors enjoyed them under different circumstances. There was not one motor vehicle for every 2.5 persons and wonderful highways conducive to fast travel as there now are in California.

It is the duty of every person who has been drinking intoxicating liquors, or who expects to attend any sort of gathering where excessive quantities of intoxicating liquors are consumed, to refrain from driving.

Further than this, we recall at a meeting at the Breakfast club where Captain Meehan spoke, that he himself, in response to questions, declared there had been an increase of 25 per cent in drunken driving accidents, and of 70 per cent, where pedestrians were involved, since liquor came back.

Certainly it is not too much to ask that the real cause of this terrible increase shall be placed before the people of the state, if these meetings are to be held. If anything else should cause such an increase in accidents and death, and cause damage to such a degree, it certainly would not be ignored.

It may have been that the failure to speak of it at this meeting was merely an oversight. We hope this is the case, for certainly alcohol and automobiles do not and cannot mix with safety anywhere.

RAYMOND POINCARÉ

Former President Raymond Poincaré of France died today. He was 75 years old and had lived a most active, useful and heavily freighted life.

Several times he had been called to public office and in 1926 there was such an imperative demand for his assuming power that it evidenced the confidence in which he was held. At that time, it will be recalled, France was facing bankruptcy.

There was a series of short-lived cabinets. The ministry of Edouard Herriot collapsed because of the constant depression of the franc. At that moment all France sought a savior, and there was only one man who apparently approached "filling the bill" in the minds of the leaders.

He was the only one who promised any hope of success. Poincaré was called to power. He started his government at that time with the purpose of stabilizing the franc, ratifying the debt accords and winding up the reparations tangle.

When he stepped out of office, two of these objectives were completely fulfilled and later the Young plan, for the settlement of reparations, was accepted by the various governments, which apparently completed the whole program of Poincaré.

Poincaré was a man of indomitable will and restless energy. He called Briand again to power and it was through this action that we were enabled to get the Briand-Kellogg peace pact, which has done a great deal to advance the peace sentiment of the world.

There was conflict between him and Briand, for Briand was primarily for peace not at any price, but almost, while Poincaré was for collection of reparations, regardless of consequences, and three times he put the army of France into the Ruhr for that purpose.

At the time of his election, as we recall, there was a struggle between him and Georges Clemenceau, and the disappointment of Clemenceau's life was his own failure at the presidency, and only second in his afflictions was the election of Poincaré, to whom he was opposed.

Poincaré lacked the emotionalism of Briand; he was not as relentless as Clemenceau and so, while he did not make people love him as did Briand, he did not engender the hates of the "Tiger." Calm and judicial in his statement, he brought to bear upon all public utterances and acts the power of marshaled information and facts.

He passes away rich in years, in honors and the affection of his countrymen. His passing will not leave a serious vacancy, as far as the nation is concerned, because he was not by any means a determining factor today. But he made a fine contribution of a great life at a crucial period for France.

THE HUNGARIAN MINE STRIKE

One thousand miners are at the bottom of a thousand foot shaft in Pecs, Hungary, today and have been there for nearly four days, in a starving and thirsting condition, demanding an increased wage up to an amount of $3.50 per week.

They declare that the mine will be their tomb unless these wages are granted. Their wages have been $2.00 a week. They are asking for the above amount.

This mine is owned by the Danube Steam Navigation company and in this company British interests have heavily invested. They have refused to negotiate with the men and a consequence is despair.

We do not know the conditions which confront the company. We do not know the price at which they must sell their coal. But certainly $2.00 per week, for the wages of a man digging coal in the bowels of the earth, is a condition which should challenge the interest of the world.

Not only should every coal owner and coal miner in every country be interested in that, but employers and wage earners in every other line of activity should learn the facts behind such conditions. We are rather of the opinion that the English miners will be particularly interested in this kind of competition, for surely coal mined at these prices is bad competition for "living-wage" mining in England.

Playing With Polno

Citizens of Bridgeport, Conn., have begun to breathe again. For two days they figuratively held in their diaphragms and walked on tiptoe lest they should set off the ten pounds of polno that had disappeared from the Remington Arms plant and might be lying around anywhere. Polno, if you missed the news stories, is an explosive so touchy that it would go off at a slight jar and so vehement that a pound or two of it would wreck a city block.

But now the polno has been found and returned to its vault. The first suspicion might be that the thieves became alarmed when they learned from the public warnings what dangerous stuff they had taken into their hands, and were glad to abandon it and scuttle for safety. If this is the case, it provides an example from which humanity might take a broader object lesson.

Mankind, on rather some portion of it, has been carrying around for centuries a kind of deadly explosive called the war mentality. It has had not only repeated warnings but ghastly illustrations of the destruction and suffering this stuff causes. Is it not time to lay down such equipment and get away from it?

Hitherto it has generally been supposed that this commodity of easy war talk and emotional patriotism was largely in the hands of novices—half-baked "statesmen" and excitable common folk who did not know the danger of what they were touching off—and that in this lay the menace. Recent investigations such as the United States Senate munitions inquiry, however, have tended to indicate that some of the spreaders of this war mentality have known perfectly well what they were handling, have planned to use it for their own purposes and with little regard for the social consequences.

In this respect the polno theft at Bridgeport offers probably an even truer parallel. For it appears from several circumstances that the deprecatation there was the work of men who knew what they were doing and had their own designs. Apparently whether protecting itself either from polno thieves or war talkers, society must direct its efforts not only against those who toy with explosives from ignorance but also from those who do so from intention.

Motoring Facts

A general impression that California is generously supplied with automobiles, is borne out by the "Facts and Figures" published this week by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

There is in California one automobile to every 3.09 persons, or more machines in comparison to the population than in any state in the union. So are there more registered automobiles here than in any other state except New York which, however, has one automobile to every 5.78 in population. The California registration in 1933 was 1,568,807 to New York's 2,240,757 and no other state approached within 300,000 of our figure. While our total has dropped slightly since the peak year, 1930, it is a quarter of a million ahead of 1928 and a proportionately similar story is told in New York.

Motoring opportunities in California and perhaps generally better conditions give it an overwhelming leadership in the number of cars in proportion to population and an actual one of great proportions over all states save the much more populous New York. We lead all states, save New York, in gasoline tax receipts, but in motor vehicle registration receipts, due to a smaller fee, are in eighth place. As some states charge as much as 6 cents gas tax the leadership in that respect is the more remarkable. Using the money as we do, we are one of 36 states which levy no general property tax for state highways.

Figuring all the taxes and fees which he pays, it is announced that the American motorist contributes to government, federal, state and city, an annual sum of $1,137,872,000, or one out of every eight tax dollars.

BIG NEWS

A bear, confined in a zoo in Vienna goes berserk when he hears a crooner.

That a bear is a reasoning creature is now past a shadow of doubt; He resorts to a deep And unshakeable sleep When the blizzard is buzzing about. You will never encounter a bruin In the keen chilly days of the fall; Moreover you'll find That he's wise in his mind. For he won't stand for crooners at all.

Common noises but rarely distract him; When the wind murmurs loud in the trees The average bear Will remain in his lair Through the winter, completely at ease. But though commonly gentle and placid, He never will fail to get rough, And raise the old deuce If he ever gets loose When a crooner is doing his stuff.

I never would harm any crooner. I never have injured one yet; A single deft twist Of the average wrist Will turn off a radio set. But the breeding of bears by the thousand— They multiply fastest in spring— And to turn them all out, Beyond any doubt, Would prove a most excellent thing.

The best way to raise children is to keep them on the level. So the financiers juggled figures to hide the awful facts. Well, it shows what golf will do for you. General Johnson's future is uncertain. So few enterprises need a man who talks too much.

People aren't grown-up enough to be free while no one of them gives a darn about the lost liberties of another. The first essential in leadership is a crowd dumb enough to follow.

PEACE IS A PERIOD WHEN ANYTHING YOU DO TO HARM YOUR COUNTRY IS CALLED LIBERTY INSTEAD OF TREASON.

Things even up. The virtuous feel as good in the morning as the naughty do at night. The Devil didn't, and look at him. Hire one man to kill another and you have; hire a million to kill tens of thousands and you get a monument.

AMERICANISM: In time of peace, condemning the wicked waste of armament; in time of crisis, denouncing the government for not protecting us.

Nag: A poor horse; also a method of taming a poor fish. Only one animal capable of reason, and it is happy or miserable as gamblers change the price of stocks.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLEN FRANK

THE ASSURANCE THEY ASKED

Discussion pro and con still goes on over the President's talk with the people over the radio on the last day of September.

It was admittedly given in response to critics of the New Deal and to the growing demands from many business interests for what they called assurance.

If those demanding assurance had written the President's talk, what would he have said? The answer, I think, is quite clear.

He would have announced his intention to return promptly to the gold standard.

He would have announced his determination promptly to balance the Federal budget largely through a drastic scaling down of the lushly expanded Federal personnel and by radical retrenchment in Public Works expenditures.

He would have announced his intention promptly to pull in the horns of the National Recovery Administration, and would have given promise either of the outright repeal or a sweeping delimitation of the scope of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

He would have announced his intention of asking the forthcoming Congress either to repeal or materially to ease the regulatory features of the legislation on the issuance of new securities.

He would have given definite promise that the dollar would not be further diluted.

He would have put all the cards on the table regarding new legislation he has in mind to propose to the next Congress, or would have announced that he would propose none.

Those who have clamored most loudly for "assurance" would have been satisfied had the President made a speech along those lines. He did not. Should he have made such a speech? Despite a fundamental dissent from several features of the New Deal, it is clear to me that the President should not have let the apostles of "assurance" thus dictate his speech. As I have said several times, the road back is not the way out.

As I put it the other day, the problem before the national leadership just now is not to surrender to those who would junk the New Deal, but the responsible and realistic refinement of the reforms that have been instituted.

And of this intention the President gave words of assurance in his chat with the people.

WHY SCHOOL?

"What's the matter, Tony?" "Aw, he sent me out."

"What for?" "Aw, I didn't want to make a tie rack."

"Why not?" "Why should I make a tie rack? I only got this tie."

"What did you want to make?" "I wanted to make a dog house but he got sore and threw me out."

"Have you a dog?" "Yes, and my mother doesn't want him in the house unless it's storming. I got a box for him but it leaks, and anyway it isn't so good."

"We'll see what can be done about getting a house for him. I suppose you could make it if you had the lumber?"

"Sure, I could. Better than a tie rack. What does he care what I make if I work? And make something? But he won't let me."

The shop teacher looked hurt when the principal asked him if Tony could make a dog house instead of a tie rack.

"All the other boys are making tie racks. Why should Tony be an exception? That spoils the discipline, makes him think he is important. He ought to be made to do what the others do."

Now that's where I disagree. The mission of the school is to strengthen the strengths of its children. It is not to thwart them. It is not to elevate the teacher into some sort of authority. It is not to establish a false standard of discipline and work. The notion that Tony must make a tie rack because a tie rack is scheduled is not good enough. Tony is to make what will stimulate him to create activity. If his work does not make him creative it fails at its source. Routines, imposed, meaningless tasks deaden the creative faculty. They are to be used only when creative energy fails and on as long as it is necessary to stimulate an idea. If they fail to rouse an idea in a reasonable time some other approach must be made.

"Why should Tony have his own way? You spoil him that way."

That's another notion that I don't accept. What way is the child to have? Your way? My way? If so, why? There is no sin in allowing a child to have his own way when that way is right for him? It is the only way that is going to serve him. When you impose your way he stands aside, in spirit if not in body, until you get out of his sight. Then he goes back to his own ideas. That is the way he is made. He must live his own life according to the power that was given him in the beginning. He can develop what he has, not what you want him to have, unless you happen to agree on that essential point.

The school is established and maintained to serve the children according to their needs. If the school does not stimulate children to need, to desire, to hunger after knowledge and skill and power, then the school fails and the generation is lost. Not unthinking obedience, not slavish concentration on non-essentials, not the glorification of those in authority over children, is the mission of the school. Service to the children as they come, one by one is that mission and there is none higher on this earth.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)
